Wealth Management

Not just serve clients, but take time for them.

Increased regulation holds back the wealth management industry. Traditional compliance methods struggle to keep up with the emerging interfaces between financial institutions and their customers.

Let's make it radically simple.

Apiax provides easy-to-access compliance knowledge across organisations.

As the industry turns digital, we make digital wealth management solutions compliant by design.

Switching the focus away from regulatory compliance, our clients can fully engage in business development and customer experiences.

It's an eye-opener to watch a burden turn into a competitive advantage when approached the right way.

Asset Management

Not just distribute products, but leverage their full potential.

In asset management, exploring investment opportunities beyond country borders has become as natural as capitalising on those within.

Despite all efforts to seek clarity, ambiguity still remains, causing inaction and bypassed business opportunities – especially when marketing and distributing funds in new markets.

Let's make it radically simple.

We provide asset managers with clear answers to their most pressing regulatory questions.

It's quite a paradox. Structures set up to govern activities across borders may become one of the main sources of business opportunities, if managed correctly.

Digital Assets

Not just follow a hype, but create a sustainable business.

New digital assets create just as many insecurities as opportunities.

Generating a sustainable business from digital assets means diving into highly complex regulatory requirements.

Let's make it radically simple.

Apiax provides dependable regulatory knowledge on digital assets at the click of a button.

Better yet, we offer scalable solutions that can be implemented with only 5 lines of code.

It's fascinating how knowing the rules of play is key in order to keep one step ahead.

Data Protection

Not just walk on beaten tracks, but point the way forward.

Stricter data protection regulations make immediate and decisive action difficult and burden already scarce resources.

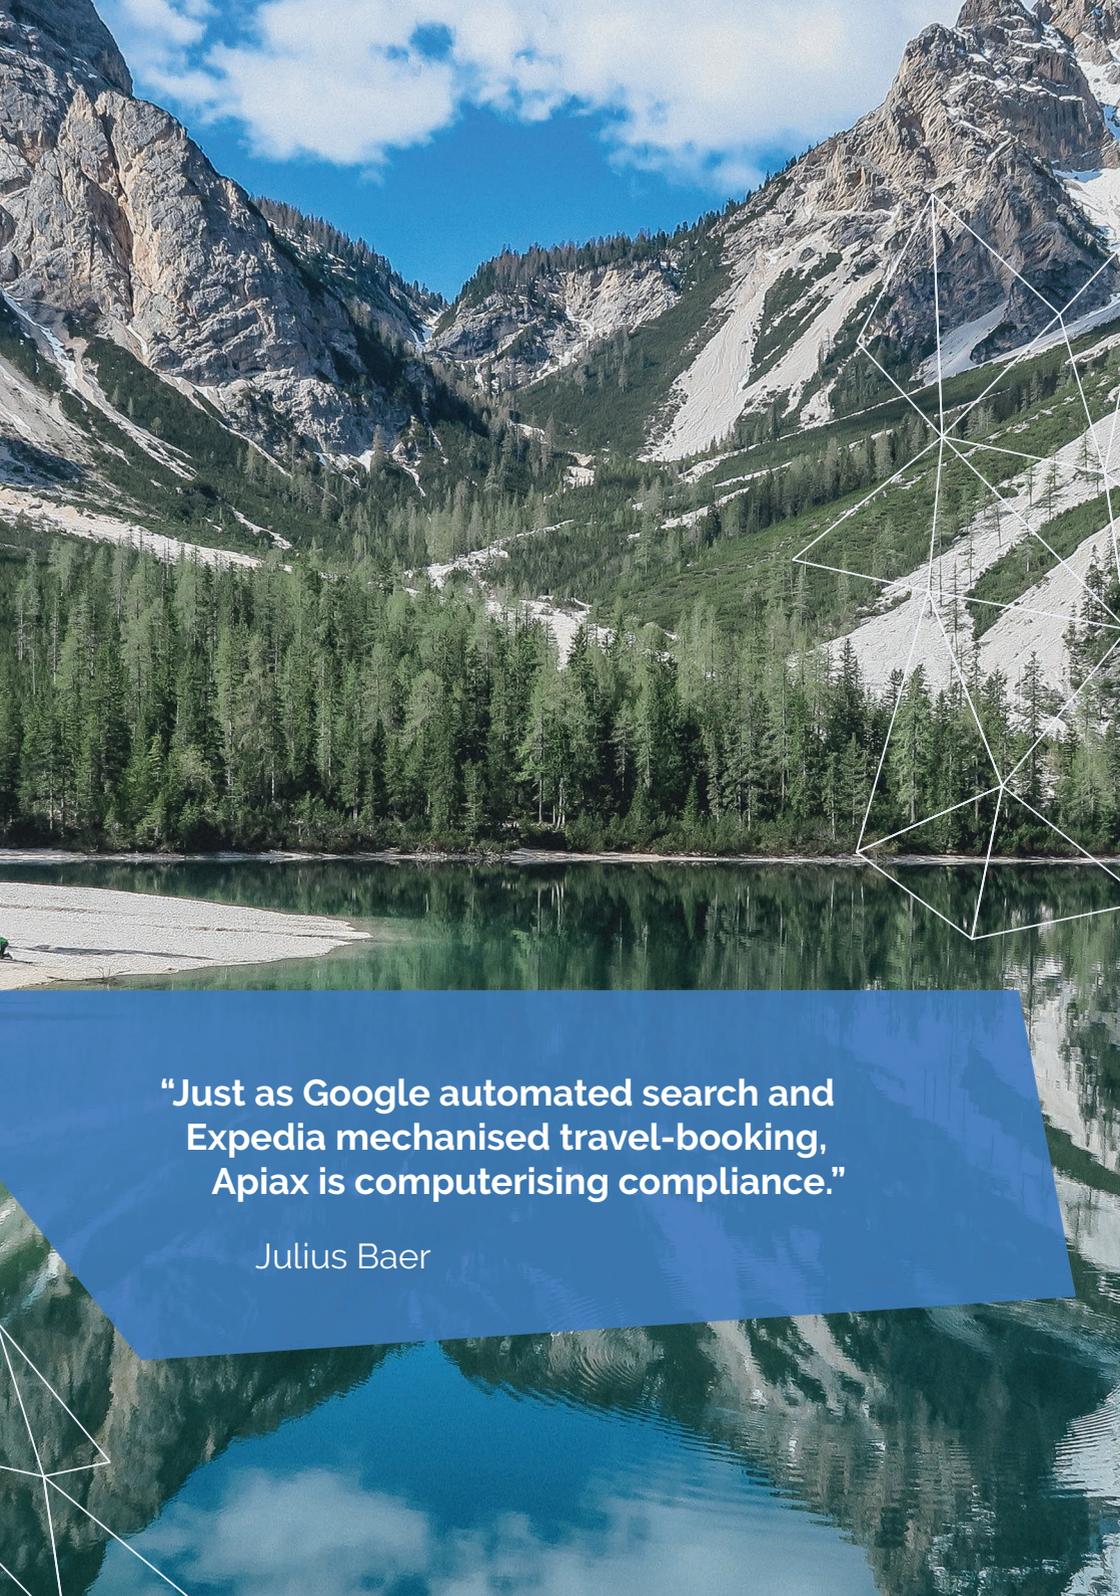

Despite regional and global harmonisation efforts, rules remain highly fragmented.

Let's make it radically simple.

We provide binary answers to the most pressing questions on data protection.

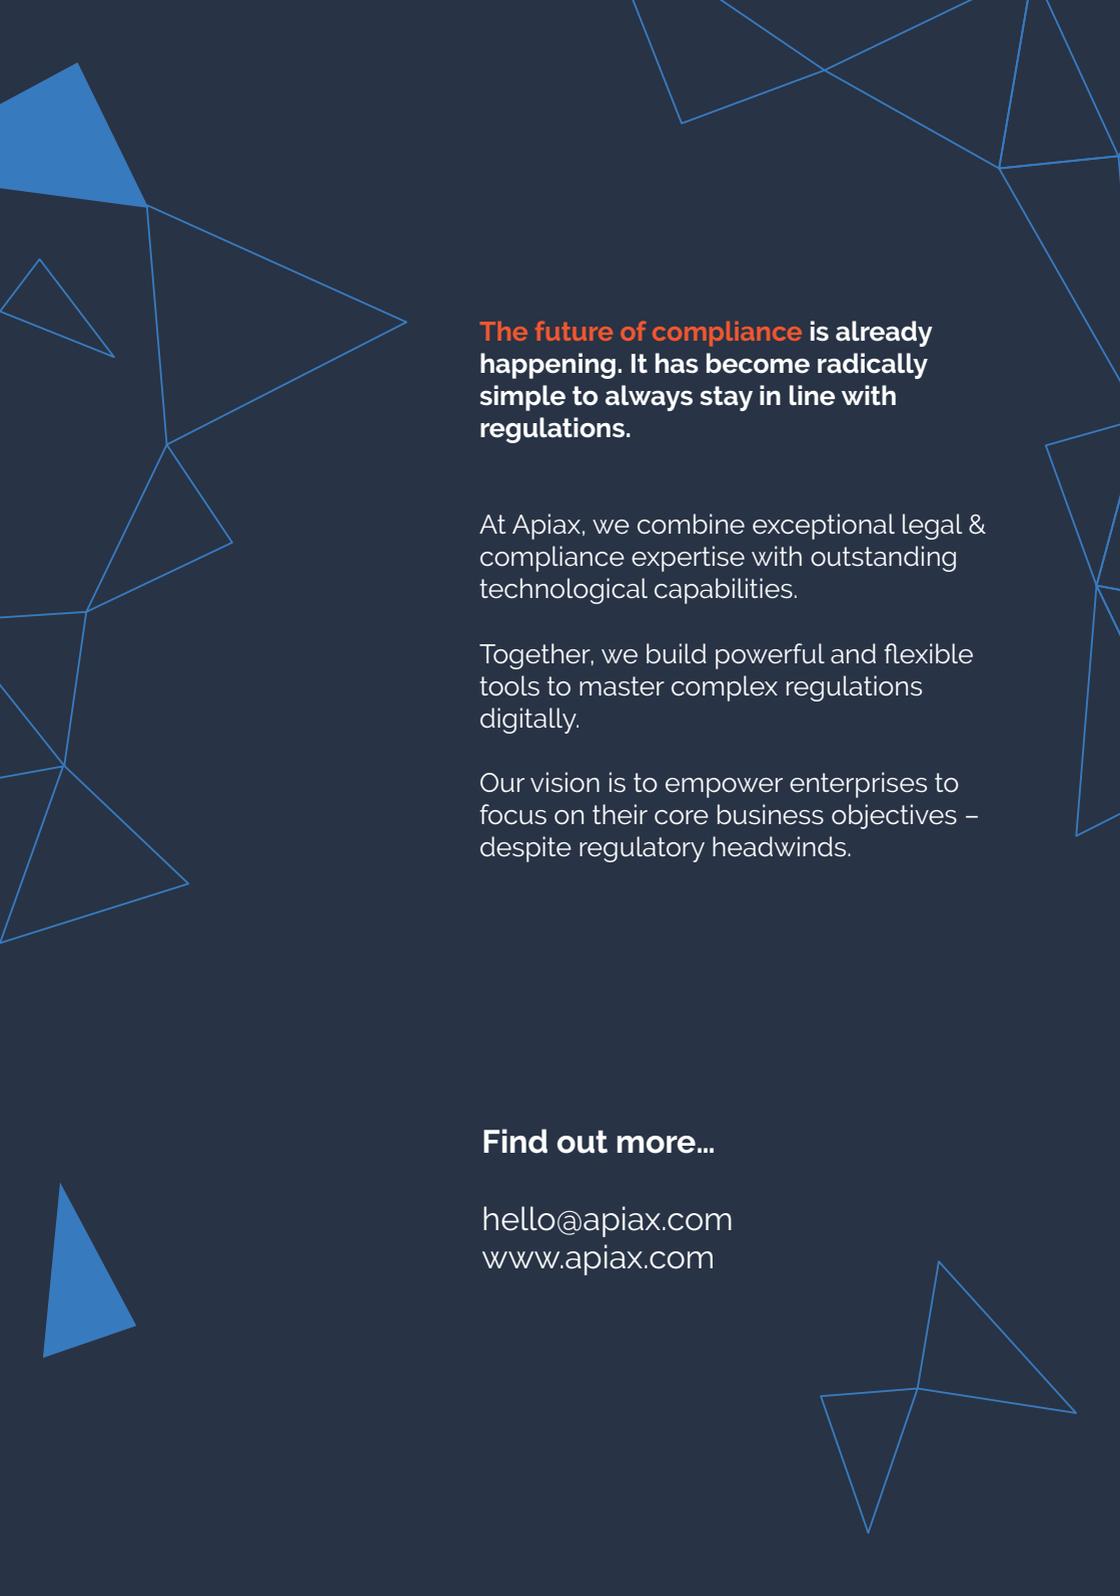

With full control over data protection rules, our clients have one less thing to worry about when developing outstanding products and experiences.

It's thrilling to see how technology developed for a specific purpose can be so instrumental to entire organisations.

“Just as Google automated search and
Expedia mechanised travel-booking,
Apiax is computerising compliance.”

Julius Baer

The future of compliance is already happening. It has become radically simple to always stay in line with regulations.

At Apiax, we combine exceptional legal & compliance expertise with outstanding technological capabilities.

Together, we build powerful and flexible tools to master complex regulations digitally.

Our vision is to empower enterprises to focus on their core business objectives – despite regulatory headwinds.
